❖ Setting in the novel A Walk in the Night and Other Stories

The setting is typically urban. The time is during the era of apartheid and racial injustice in South Africa. There are several events and places that prove the real life of an urban setting some of which are the sub-settings of the major setting.

- The presence of Restaurants, bars and cafés, and Night Clubs are common in towns (cities).
- People living in rented tenements is common in town.
- Presence of factories.
- Night police patrols.
- Crimes and gang activities like robbery, drug addiction, prostitution, etc. are common in town.

❖ Setting in the novel The Concubine

The novel is set in a pre-colonial rural Nigeria and the author talks about the African traditional way of life in a rural community including but not limited to its religious, social, cultural, and economic practices.

- A number of Nigerian villages have been mentioned; Omokachi, Chiolu, Aliji, and Omigwe.
- Traditional practices like belief in the witch doctors, the role of supernatural spirits on human life, gathering for night dances at the village arena, traditional marriages like early childhood betrothal, polygamy, spouse beating, taboos, and dressing styles (wrappers), etc. constitute a rural setting.
