They collected the supplies, at Lunch of Ugali and roasted liver in a busy restaurant near one-way street and then set off back to Mpwapwa.

On their way back they stopped from time to time to pick up some passengers and to buy some goat meat from the butcheries at the junction of the Mpwapwa road. When they reached the river bed, they were surprised to find some water flowing along it. "There must be a lot of rain in the mountains." Said Aloyce, "May be we should wait until the water has stopped."

"Don't worry", replied Mustapha. "The water is not very deep. The pick-up will easily pass through".
