3. {i} What is the Dual mandate system of Colonial administration? Who established it for the first time? Where? Why?

It was the indirect system in which the British the indigenous authorities to govern their fellow Africans on behalf of Europeans. It was established by Sir Fredrick Lugard in Nigeria. It was cheap to operate the system than others systems.

{ii} What is colonial Bureaucracy {colonial superstructures}. Show the branches of Colonial Bureaucracy.

The major branches of colonial Bureaucracy were civil Bureaucracy and Military Bureaucracy.

{iii} Explain the role {functions} of Colonial military services. Give examples of colonial armies.

Colonial military involved all kinds of colonial armies. The armies ensured security in colony, they also protected colonial boundaries.

{iv} Explain why the Germans opted for Direct rule system as their favorable system of colonial administration?

Germans had a manageable number of colonies. Indirect rule was effective because it hindered the Africans a chance to rebel against the Germans.

{v} Show how the indirect rule system was implemented in Uganda, Kenya and Tanganyika in colonial time.

In Uganda and Tanganyika, the indirect rule was implemented through the use of native authorities such as native courts {judiciary}, native treasury, native kings and native legislatures such as the Lukiiko of Buganda kingdom.

{vi} Explain why the Direct rule system failed to bring peace and tranquility among many African communities in colonial time.

The indirect rule was operated in a brutal ways, Africans were jailed without regular trials, they were whipped by their task masters, and they were forced to work under minimal payment. The system despised African indigenous authorities. In so doing, it provoked Africans wrath against the Europeans.
