i) Assimilation policy was the French colonial administrative system that aimed of creating French black Africans among the West Africans who would be French citizens. The policy was common used in western part of Africa like Senegal, Algeria and Morocco. Assimilation policy was implemented in Africa through various ways like teaching the French language to Africans, to impose French laws to Africans especially in west Africa, to give the Africans political and civil rights just like the French and to give the Africans French citizenship I areas where they practiced the assimilation policy.

ii) Slave trade was the process of buying and selling human being like other commodities in the market. I think slave trade was expanded in Indian Ocean because of the introduction of clove plantation in Zanzibar by the Arabs, introduction of French sugar plantation and the Portuguese plantation in Brazil which led to the increase of demand for slaves and then the expansion of slave trade in Indian Ocean sea board from the 15^{th}century.

iii) Was the period when the Africans started to make and use iron tools. The discovery of iron led to many changes among the African societies like the expansion of agriculture as people they use better tools such as axes, and hand hoes. Also the discovery of iron led to population increase due to immigration of people from different regions to iron producing areas.

iv) The war ruined the economies of almost all European countries. Due to the collapse of economies, efforts were made to recover economies by producing as much as possible. This created over production of goods against under consumption hence, Great Economic Depression. Furthermore, the First World War destroyed the important economic infrastructures such as roads, railways and so on

v) The Second World War was the turning point for the rise of mass nationalism in Africa because it led to the rise of mass consciousness among the Africans to liberate themselves. For example after the end of Second World War USA emerged as a capitalist super power while USSR emerged as a super socialist power and both of them they supported the decolonization in Africa.

vi) The founder of this theory is called Charles Darwin (1809 –1882). This theory shows that man originated from the family of primate which includes Gorillas, monkeys and Chimpanzee these animals lived in the forest walking on four limbs and their bodies covered with hair. Slowly evolutionary processes took place and led to the appearance of modern man.

i Education services
- Aimed at educating few Africans who will assist in low post of colonial administrative system
- Teach Africans better agriculture methods

ii Health services. Used to treat both European (supervisors) and African labours. By doing this it ensured constant supply of the laborers in production areas and constant supervision.

iii Water services. The colonial government provided water services near production areas so they can utilize effectively the time for production. Instead of using much time searching for water they could use the time in production.

iv Housing services. Colonialists provide housing (better) for European supervisors and tents for the African labours. The labours and colonial supervisors are accommodated near the production areas. This aimed at maximizing the time for production.

v Transport services. The colonial government provided transport services to transport raw materials from production areas, manufactured goods, and troops, tools of production, migrant labours and colonial officials.

vi Religion. Colonial government used religion to pacify and soften African mind and soul so as they can accept any orders come from the Colonialist.
